FBLA Members Attend National Fall Leadership Conference in Milwaukee by Riley Bellin, FBLA Reporter

On the morning of November 4, thirteen Shiocton FBLA members began the drive down to the National Fall Leadership Conference, a conference many would never forget. This conference was held in Milwaukee, WI, and is only one of three held in the United States, the others being in Dallas, TX and Daytona Beach, FL. Besides Wisconsin, states as far east as New Jersey and as far south as Missouri attended to make this conference truly a wonderful opportunity to network with others and create friendships to last a lifetime.

Over the duration of that Friday - Saturday, members attended workshops to help not only better their skills in presentation, but to also take in knowledge regarding things you do in the workplace that can get you fired, learning how to have confidence in yourself, and also how to fundraise for your chapter.

Throughout the days, these workshops taught Shiocton FBLA members valuable skills and provided many different informational facets for success in life. We also got to experience a restaurant called Safe House, deemed as sketchy by some and quirky by others. When inside Safe House, members remarked at how interesting and well thought out the concept was.

This conference was extremely valuable to many people and was truly a fantastic opportunity to create new friendships and connect with students from around the United States. To sum it all up, the FBLA National Leadership Conference was a success all around!

As We Turn the Calendar ...

By the time you read this article, our calendars will have been switched, a new year will be upon us. There is so much to look forward to as we turn the calendar ...

Continued Learning ... staff members continue to seek learning opportunities to bring back different ideas, new programs, and ways to grow our talents. We look forward to a book study of Mindset by Carol Dweck, as well as learning more about brain development and student learners as "problem solvers".

Continued Learning ... students continue to benefit from hands-on projects, instruction based upon best practices, and a growing number of dual-credit courses. From a mummified chicken to a balloon launch with a Go-Pro, there are many science projects in the works. The Tech Ed lab continues to transform; HOSA, FBLA, SWAT and other groups continue to grow in numbers and educational activities. Preparing for work, college and careers will continue to be a source of learning be it through mock-interviews, Reality Check, ACT prep courses, and ACP lessons.

No doubt, this new year will go by way too fast (it seems they always do). All too soon, the sleds and snow hills will be replaced with cleates and running events, bat bags and fields of dreams. For now, let us enjoy the pristine look of the wintery down, the hope and excitement for success to be experienced that naturally comes with the new year and the turning of the calendar.

Shiocton School District Open Position: District Registrar

The Shiocton School District is seeking candidates for the part-time position of District Registrar. Successful candidates will demonstrate attention to detail and data entry skills with a high level of accuracy and data base proficiency. The successful candidate will also possess a high level of interpersonal and organizational skills, with the ability to track stages of completion for long-term projects.

Specific job duties include: maintaining accurate student data and demographic information in district's computer-based student information data management system (Skyward); utilize data system to download required reporting documentation; assist with data collection and provision with regard to district and standardized testing, as well as state and federal reports; perform general office and additional related tasks as needed.

The position is approximately 15 hour/week for approximately 11 months of the year. Candidates interested in the position should apply through the district's website by January 3, 2017 - click on "Employment Opportunities".

I can't believe that it is January. It seems like just yesterday, we were starting school and now we are fast approaching the end of the first semester. First semester exams will be held on January 16 and 17.

Registration for next year is quickly approaching as well. The course description booklet went before the school board in December for their approval. Mrs. Cornell, our school counselor, will go into classrooms starting January 19. All students will get registration forms that will need to be signed by their parents. The forms indicate what classes the students have requested for the 2016-17 school year. It is important that students consult parents, counselors, and teachers so that they can make appropriate choices for course. Students will receive tentative schedules before the end of the school year.

Reality Check is just around the corner. Reality Check is designed to provide seniors with "real life" experiences in a mock simulation. On January 11, each senior will participate in "mock" interviews for careers in which they are interested. Then, on Jan. 13th, they will assume that role and see if they can budget properly for a month as they experience a financial literacy activity. Mrs. Miller, Ms. Schneider, and Mrs. Cornell are doing a great job of organizing the event. We are excited to have our students experience this worth while activity. We are also pleased with the number of community members who have volunteered to help us with this project. It is great seeing the school and community working so closely together to educate our students.

As always, if you have any questions or comments feel free to contact me at 986-3351 ext. 751, I look forward to hearing from you.

Co-Curricular Code

By Mr. Spaulding

The Shiocton School District Co-curricular Code has recently undergone some changes. The Co-curricular Code outlines rules and guidelines for all student-athletes. The code usually is reviewed annually in the spring of each year. However, the Co-curricular Committee gathered to make some necessary changes.

One of the changes made was the addition of the Multi-sport Participation. This policy was adopted by the School Board after the Central Wisconsin Conference changed its rules to allow an athlete the potential to participate in two sports in the same season. Also, language was clarified regarding the evaluation of grades and period of ineligibility for middle school students.

The appeal process for co-curricular violations underwent the most change. Time parameters were clarified for an appeal to the Activity Council and the School Board. A provision was added stating that athletes are ineligible for events during the appeal process. This coincides with Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association (WIAA) rules. Students can continue to practice during an appeal. Also, the people who make-up the Activity Council was slightly modified.

These changes received school board approval and are now in effect. The code can be viewed on the district website by going to Shiocton Athletics, which can be found on left-side menu. The changes will provide our student-athletes and parents with clearer rules and guidelines. The Co-curricular Committee will continue to meet each year to ensure that the code meets WIAA rules and district policies while working well for our student-athletes.

Shiocton School Health Services
Attendance Guidelines:
Reminder from the Health Office
By Mrs. Ecker

With the cold and flu season upon us, it is important to remember a few things:

1. When your child has a fever, he/she cannot attend school. A child with a temperature over 100 degrees should not be sent to school. Please do not allow your child to return to school until free of a fever for 24 hours. Giving medication, such as Tylenol, may temporarily reduce the fever, but will not reduce the risk of passing the infection on to other people.
2. A child with vomiting and/or diarrhea should be kept home for at least 24 hours after the last episode to allow the body time to recuperate. Call your doctor if prompt improvement does not occur.
3. A child with a deep or hacking like cough belongs at home. If your child has coughing that is accompanied by a high fever or wheezing, you should consult their doctor immediately.
4. A rash may be the first sign of many illnesses. Do not send your child to school with a widespread rash. Again consult your doctor before you send the child.
5. A child with a mild cold or sore throat with no other symptoms may go to school. They should be encouraged as always to practice good hand washing.
6. It is important that your child's emergency information up to date. If you or your emergency contacts have any address or home/cell/work phone number changes, please update that information with the office as soon as possible.
7. If your child does get sick at school, then you will need to have someone available to pick up him/her immediately. We need to keep other students and staff healthy and safe.
8. If your child should require medication during the school day, remember the school supplies no medication. Medication must be brought in by an adult in the original labeled container along with a permission form from either parent.

Snow Much Fun in Grade One!

By Mrs. Bellin

Wow! It's hard to believe, but December is almost over! The first graders had a lot of fun reading The Gingerbread Man, baking cookies, and creating art work to go along with this unit. Thank you to all who sent ingredients and who volunteered to help make cookies! We couldn't do it without you!

Speaking of fun, we can't wait to have "snow much fun" in January. The first graders will be reading and listening to many snow stories. Along with other snow-themed projects, students will be making great big snowmen to decorate the halls with and then they will drift into your home to add some wintry cheer.

In math, we've been working on place value concepts involving teen numbers and double digit numbers to 100. The students have really worked hard to understand these difficult concepts and will be putting that knowledge to further use in January when we work with story situations. Solving various addition and subtraction story problems using double digit numbers to 100 will be a challenge, but we are up for it! We have first-grade power!

As we near the end of the second quarter, think back to the first few days of school and consider just how far your child has come. These first graders have made some significant gains and you have been a big part of that learning. Please continue to encourage your student to set positive goals and help them reach their full potentials by being involved in their studies, helping with homework, and talking about what's happening at school. Together, we make a great team!

What is Your Story?

Grade 5

By Mrs. McNichols

Can you believe that it is 2017? Looking back to the first day of the 2016 school year brings memories of anticipations, expectations, and excitement. All the learnings, takeaways, smiles, and memories so far have been part of an exciting adventure. Memories pile up year after year like boxes of unsorted photos. Memoir writing is a great way to organize these memories and leave a legacy of yourself. Here are a few reasons to write a memoir of your own:

- Past takes shape, clearer vision of who you are today.
- Storytelling is an opportunity to organize and communicate all your thoughts more clearly.
- Form a connection with those who read your words.
- Your knowledge and wisdom can help others grow along with you.
- Sharing your unique perspective.
- Helps dissolve the hard knots of loss, betrayal, regret, and guilt that keep you stuck in the past despite your best efforts to forget.
- Forming a writing habit. Challenge yourself. (Develop brain cells)
- Telling the story of tomorrow provides you with a powerful tool to keep you moving today.

Take a look back with a fifth grader to October of 2016, by reading some of their memoirs of Camp U-Nah-Li-Ya you will realize what a positive impact this trip had on their developing minds as they make memories of their own.

We look forward to many more memories in 2017, and fifth graders will be getting an opportunity to write another memoir in the spring.

Being Responsible

I never liked when I went away from home for a sleepover or went to a birthday party, because my mom always had to spend twenty minutes telling me how to pack and act like a lady. I realized that she wanted to keep me safe and wanted me to make a good impression, but after a while it just gets plain annoying. The way that she spent thirty minutes on how to pick the right bunk bed, bunk mate, and how to make my bed. I was ready for some time away from home.

Kyler and I, feet crunched on the leaves as we past the dark wood trees leading to the Kress cabin. I was excited to start unpacking and to get myself ready for the night. Suddenly the wood building structure moved closer by the step. Clunk. Clunk. Clunk. Our feet banged against the golden wood steps onto the platform deck leading to the doorstep. By then we were panting loud enough that that all the rabbits in the woods could hear us. I touched the doors cold handle and opened it imitating a butler.

"After you ma'dam," I said trying to look as professional as possible straightening my back.

"Why thank you kind woman," Kyler responded.

We passed the living room, it was completely empty like usual, everyone else was probably playing games outside. I thought It was a good idea that we started getting our stuff ready for bed because we had a long night ahead of us, we had to do the night hike and the Lorax play all in one night.

We arrived to our quiet room full of bunk beds. Our luggage's were spread everywhere from this morning when we arrived. I put my comforter on the bed and smoothed out the creases as much as I could ,like my mom showed me. Then I put on my fitted sheet following with rest of my bed materials. I thought that it would be a good idea to put my pajamas on top of my luggage, so that they are handy for when we come back to our cabin. So I thought to myself admiring my work, I don't need my mom to help me after all. I was ready to be responsible and show my mom that I can do things on my own.

My feet felt like big heavy boulders carrying me slowly to my bunk bed. My hair still damp from showering is put into long french braids. My body was so sore from all of our day and extra activities. I set down my bag from showering and opened it. I looked in the bag for my toothbrush, and my soap bag was full of water. My mind drifted off to when I was in the shower trying to remember how it happened. "It will be perfectly fine if I just lay it there I thought. After all it should not be full of water because it's lying to the side. I wonder why my mom didn't tell me to put it outside of the shower in the other compartment? Wait or did she? Oh no she did tell me. The bag is even hers. If she finds out she will be so "disappointed in me." That's right, she told me when she dropped me off in the parking lot, but of course I had to ignore her and her speech. I guess I'll just have to clean it out, let it dry, and hope for the best.

My mom's voice always comes back to my head, so it is important to listen, but I know when I am truly responsible, is when I can figure that out on my own. I realized that even if you don't want to listen you should, because they're telling you and they care about you.
